Denver Attorney Conner Eversole in Built In - The proposed amendment offers guidance to help companies bring their websites into compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Since 2018, the number of U.S. businesses served with lawsuits claiming their website or mobile apps are inaccessible by people with disabilities — thereby rendering them in violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) — has continued to increase. Many businesses are surprised to learn that they might be violating federal law and are unsure on how to shield themselves. Read more here
