Kevin Hayes is a shareholder and senior litigator with the firm, specializing in energy and general commercial litigation. In addition, he serves as an Adjunct Settlement Judge and arbitrator. He is a past President of the firm and also served on the firm's Executive Committee. He is a Senior Member of the firm's Board of Directors.

Kevin is a graduate of the University of Tulsa College of Law and has been with Hall Estill since 1975. He has an individual AV Preeminent rating through Martindale-Hubbell.

Kevin's practice has historically focused on the representation of energy-related companies in property, construction and contractual right matters. In addition, he has represented clients in matters before the Federal Energy Administration in connection with wage and price control matters, has represented numerous gas pipeline companies in contractual dispute litigation, and has represented telecommunications companies in litigation concerning claims of landowners owning land adjacent to rights of way upon which fiber optic cable has been laid. Today, Kevin is involved as lead counsel in several major class actions involving oil and gas royalty owner claims.
