

International Tax Practice

In today's global economy, businesses are looking for ways to expand beyond their borders. Hall Estill's team of International tax attorneys can assist and work with clients of all sizes to structure cross-border transactions and provide practical advice related to exploring these opportunities.

Our attorneys assist clients with multifaceted international tax matters, including: structuring inbound and outbound business and real estate investments; cross-border mergers, dispositions and joint ventures; and reorganizing and restructuring multinational corporate groups. We work with clients to handle international controversies before the IRS and in the courts, including forensic tax controversies. Our International tax attorneys can also devise specialized planning involving transfer pricing, foreign entity classification, foreign tax credits, foreign currency transactions, profit repatriations, and tax treaty issues.

In the News

- Hall Estill Welcomes Tax Attorney Matt Campbell