As a member of Hall Estill's litigation group, Jacqueline McCormick represents clients in a variety of matters including professional negligence, construction law, premises liability, bad faith, personal injury, commercial disputes, and employment issues.

Jacqueline's practice also focuses on oil and gas, banking and technology industries, and energy concepts. She regularly advises clients on avoidance of litigation, as well as review of day to day issues for local and national businesses. Jacqueline places particular importance on developing ongoing relationships with her clients and a full understanding of their business needs.

Prior to joining Hall Estill, Jacqueline's practice consisted of a wide variety of tort defense, including professional negligence, premises liability, employment issues, and general negligence. Her past experience in these areas, as well as prior trial experience, make her uniquely qualified to manage all aspects of a variety of litigated cases. In addition to state court trial experience, Jacqueline has argued before the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Jacqueline has been recognized as a Super Lawyer Rising Star annually since 2017 and has also been recognized as a Best Lawyers: One to Watch in Commercial Litigation.
