

Parent Coordination

Parents whose relationship has come to an end face many challenges in raising their children. We meet with parents to minimize conflict between themselves to develop what is best for their children. Through parent coordination the number one goal is for the children to have a relationship with both parents without being "caught in the middle." Our goal is to peacefully guide parents through this process with as much dignity as possible for the best outcome for all.